JOPLIN TORNADO DISASTER RECOVERY

Approaching the one year anniversary of the 2011 tornado that ripped through Joplin, MO, this presentation examines the disaster recovery efforts experienced first-hand by Mark Hawkins and the Iron Mountain Team.

Learn about Iron Mountain's role in the disaster recovery effort, the risks they identified and helped alleviate, and find out how they were able to prioritize their assignments under the physical and emotional stress of the situation.

Mark will share what they learned from their work in Joplin, as well as critical disaster recovery tips you can take back to your organization.

Presented by Mark D. Hawkins

In 1985 Mark accepted a full track scholarship to a school in the USA. He raced professionally for a number of years and had an Olympic qualify standard in the 3000M steeplechase. Today he spends his free time helping young runners achieve greatness and receiving scholarships to higher education.

Over the last 10 years Mark has had the pleasure to specialize in the world of healthcare. Helping large organizations manage different facets of their paper as they transition to Electronic Health Record (EHR). He has been progressively responsible for assisting healthcare leadership in developing strategic direction in records management and contingency planning. Today, Mark's primary commitment is to assist all organizations in focusing on efficiencies, reducing cost while mitigating risk to achieve the best in patient care.
